(Delegate Lopez, et al.)

Criminal Law - Child Pornography

This bill expands the definitions of (1) “sexual conduct” under § 11-101 of the Criminal Law Article to include lascivious exhibition of the genitals or pubic area of any person and (2) “matter” under § 11-201 of the Criminal Law Article to include a digital reproduction. Furthermore, the bill expands the prohibition against possession of child pornography under § 11-208 of the Criminal Law Article by prohibiting the knowing possession and intentional retention of a computer-generated image that is indistinguishable from an actual child younger than age 16.

Fiscal Summary

State Effect: Minimal increase in revenues and expenditures due to the bill’s expanded application of existing penalty provisions.

Local Effect: Minimal increase in revenues and expenditures due to the bill’s expanded application of existing penalty provisions.

Small Business Effect: None.

Analysis

Current Law: Section 11-101 of the Criminal Law Article defines “sexual conduct” as (1) human masturbation; (2) sexual intercourse; or (3) whether alone or with another individual or animal, any touching of or contact with the breasts of a female individual or the genitals, buttocks, or pubic areas of an individual. Section 11-201 of the Criminal Law Article defines “matter” as (1) a book, magazine, newspaper, or other printed or written material; (2) a picture, drawing, photograph, motion picture, or other pictorial representation; (3) a statue or other figure; (4) a recording, transcription, or mechanical, chemical, or electrical reproduction; or (5) any other article, equipment, machine, or material. These definitions apply to several criminal prohibitions in Title 11, Subtitles 1 and 2 of the Criminal Law Article, as indicated in Appendix 1.

Section 11-208 of the Criminal Law Article prohibits a person from knowingly possessing and intentionally retaining a film, videotape, photograph, or other visual representation showing an actual child younger than age 16 (1) engaged as a subject of sadomasochistic abuse; (2) engaged in sexual conduct; or (3) in a state of sexual excitement. A first offense is a misdemeanor, punishable by imprisonment for up to 5 years and/or a $2,500 maximum fine. A subsequent offense is a felony, punishable by imprisonment for up to 10 years and/or a $10,000 maximum fine.

The prohibition does not apply to a parent who possesses a visual representation of the parent’s own child in the nude unless the visual representations show the child engaged as a subject of sadomasochistic abuse or in sexual conduct and in a state of sexual excitement.

It is an affirmative defense that the person did the following promptly and in good faith: (1) took reasonable steps to destroy each visual representation; or (2) reported the matter to a law enforcement agency.

Background: Exhibit 1 contains information from the Maryland Judiciary on the number of violations filed in the District Court and the circuit courts under §§ 11-207 and 11-208 of the Criminal Law Article and information from the Maryland State Commission on Criminal Sentencing Policy on the number of individuals sentenced in the State’s circuit courts under § 11-208 during fiscal 2018. A violation is a charge filed with the court. It is not a conviction, and one person may be associated with multiple violations.

State Revenues: General fund revenues increase minimally as a result of the bill's expanded application of existing monetary penalty provisions from cases heard in the District Court.

State Expenditures: General fund expenditures increase minimally as a result of the bill's expanded application of existing incarceration penalties due to more people being committed to State correctional facilities. The number of people convicted as a result of the bill is expected to be minimal.

Persons serving a sentence longer than 18 months are incarcerated in State correctional facilities. Currently, the average total cost per inmate, including overhead, is estimated at $3,800 per month. Persons serving a sentence of one year or less in a jurisdiction other than Baltimore City are sentenced to local detention facilities. For persons sentenced to a term of between 12 and 18 months, the sentencing judge has the discretion to order that the sentence be served at a local facility or a State correctional facility. The State provides assistance to the counties for locally sentenced inmates and for (1) inmates who are sentenced to and awaiting transfer to the State correctional system; (2) sentenced inmates confined in a local detention center between 12 and 18 months; and (3) inmates who have been sentenced to the custody of the State but are confined in or who receive reentry or other prerelease programming and services from a local facility.

The State does not pay for pretrial detention time in a local correctional facility. Persons sentenced in Baltimore City are generally incarcerated in State correctional facilities. The Baltimore Pretrial Complex, a State-operated facility, is used primarily for pretrial detentions.

The Judiciary advises that it does not anticipate a significant fiscal or operational impact from additional cases filed as a result of the bill.

Local Revenues: Revenues increase minimally as a result of the bill's expanded application of existing monetary penalty provisions from cases heard in the circuit courts.

Local Expenditures: Expenditures increase minimally as a result of the bill's expanded application of existing incarceration penalties. Counties pay the full cost of incarceration for people in their facilities for the first 12 months of the sentence. Per diem operating costs of local detention facilities have ranged from approximately $40 to $170 per inmate in recent years.

Prince George's County advises that while the bill may result in additional case filings, the bill's impact on circuit court operations and expenditures is minimal.
