9 "(e) Before undertaking a study to recalibrate the education
10 resource block grant model, the select committee shall undertake
11 a preliminary study to examine the educational programs for schools
12 established under W.S. 21-9-101 and other Wyoming law. The study 13 shall include any potential modifications to the educational 14 programs necessary to ensure the programs are proper and fit for 15 purpose. As part of this analysis, the select committee shall work 16 with professional consultant experts for national educational 17 program best practices or other consultants. The legislative 18 service office, subject to the approval of management council, 19 shall retain professional consulting experts for the purposes of 20 this act. The study under this subsection shall be developed in 21 consultation with relevant stakeholders and the advisory committee
22 as provided in subsection (f) of this section and shall include:
23

24 (i) Examination of alternatives in education delivery
25 models and how adoption of alternatives impacts the thirty-six 26 (36) elements of the education resource block grant funding model.
27 Evaluation of delivery models shall include apprenticeship
28 programs, career technical education, distance learning,
29 alternative high schools, charter schools, embedded credit models,
30 online virtual academies, standards based education, concurrent
31 and dual enrollments, nontraditional college studies and other
32 delivery models and methods;
33

34 (ii) Consideration of alternative education delivery
35 models and changes to the educational programs for schools;
36

37 (iii) Analysis of how funding education through local 38 block grants may comply or fail to comply with constitutional
39 requirements as interpreted by the Campbell decisions.". KINSKEY,
